THE CHURCHES AND CLERGY OF CHICAGO.

NO. 6.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Rev. Harvey Curtis, Pastor.

On the 13th of May 1833, about thirty professing christians arrived at this port, constituting a part of the garrison transferred from the Sault St. Marie, to Fort Dearborn. They were accompanied by Rev. Jeremiah Porter, now of Green Bay, Wisconsin. The First Presbyterian Church was organized the 26th of June following, and consisted of twenty-five persons, of whom about [illegible] belonged to the Garrison. Of the nine original members who were resident citizens, five still reside in Chicago. The Church was organized by adopting the Covenant and Articles of Faith of the Presbytery of Detroit; and by the election of Capt. De Lafayette Wilcox of the Garrison, and Messrs. John Wright, and Philo Carpenter as Elders. This was the first church organized in Chicago. Father Walker, an aged Methodist circuit preacher, had settled in Chicago the previous winter, and preached regularly in a room of his own log house near where now stands the old Galena R. Road depot on the West side of the North branch. In Father Walker's house the organization of the First Presbyterian Church took place; an example of christian courtesy and kindness, as delightful to recall, as it must have been pleasant to experience.

In December of that year the first case of discipline occurred, one of the members "having used intoxicating drink several times, so as to be sensibly affected by it." Thus has this [illegible] of evil, from the first, poured forth its tide of corruption and desolation.

In May, 1834, a request was received from two neighboring churches in the country, proposing a conference, to consider the question of a change from the Presbyterian to the Congregational form of church government. After full discussion it was voted unanimously that no change in the form of government was advisable.

The first house of worship for the use of this church was erected in the fall of 1833 on the rear part of the lot at the south west corner of Clark and Lake streets. This small building was removed in 1837 to the south west corner of Clark and Washington streets, and enlarged by an addition lengthwise. In 1840 it was again enlarged sidewise. The foundation of the present church edifice was laid in the autumn of 1847. The basement began to be used for public worship January 1, 1849. In September following, the whole was finished. It is built of brick, and is one of the largest and most spacious churches in the city. The interior is plainly, but neatly and comfortably furnished. [illegible] The desks and the lamp-stands ought to be removed, and their places supplied with something more in keeping with the columns and entablature.

Rev. J. Porter remained the stated supply of the church until November, 1835. Rev. John Blatchford, the first settled pastor, commenced his labors here July, 1837. He was dismissed, at his own request, August, 1839. Rev. Flavel Bascom began to preach in this church in December, 1839, was installed pastor November 10, 1840, and was dismissed, at his own request, in December, 1849. The Rev. Harvey Curtis was called to the pastorship in July, 1850. He entered upon his work August 25th, and was installed October 15, following.

During the twenty-two years since the organization of this church, there have been received to its communion 1215 members. During the same period there have been constituted, in whole or in part of its members, nine new churches; five Presbyterian and four Congregational. Its present number of communicants is about three hundred.

It may serve to illustrate the rapid growth of the city, and the development of Western religious institutions—to add, that, in collecting the foregoing facts respecting the early history of the church, in a city, which now numbers 75,000 inhabitants, and fifty churches, we have been aided by the personal recollections of one who was present and participated in that first organization, a venerable patriarch only about 60 years of age.

The present officers of the church are as follows:

Pastor—Rev. Harvey Curtis.

Elders—Sylvester Lind, J. [illegible], James Hollingsworth; Wm. Osborn, F. V. Chamberlain, and Daniel Ferguson.

Trustees—C. N. Henderson, S. P. Farrington, A. G. Downs, C. B. Nelson and A. [illegible].

Treasurer of General Charities—A. G. Downs.

Treasurer of Poor Fund—Wm. Osborn.

Mr. David Ogden, of New York, having addressed to the Secretary of State the question, whether American ships can be chartered to the British or French governments, to carry troops, horses, stores, &c., to the Black Sea, without violating the neutrality laws of the United States, the Secretary makes the following extremely satisfactory reply: "It is contrary to the usage of this Department to express an opinion, in hypothetical cases."

We subjoin our usual comparative tables of the export trade of New York, and the gold movement for the nine months of the treasury year, beginning first July last:

OUR ROCK ISLAND CORRESPONDENCE.

ROCK ISLAND, April 7.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—In my former letter, I called this a beautiful region. If now, you will, with me, walk up to the top of yonder bluff, to the south of the city, we shall, from its summit, behold one of the most beautiful landscapes in the world. Before us, at the distance of about a mile, appears the river, winding in a continued semicircle of blue, from midway up the length of the Island, to a point some three or four miles below, where it becomes lost to the view amidst the small, timber islands. For two miles, the river is lined upon each side with the buildings of the two young cities, Rock Island and Davenport. A little up the river, you may see upon the lower point of the Island, the remaining buildings of the Fort,—the bastions, the commandant's house, the magazine, and a portion of the barracks. A little farther in the distance in the same direction, you catch a glimpse of the house formerly occupied by Col. Davenport, and still in the possession of the family. Before us, the ground between the bluff and the river, is a beautiful, level plain, varied only by small groves of trees, handsomely cultivated farms, and village houses, now multiplying in every direction. The sun pours down a flood of warm mellow light, gilding everything with a cheerful lustre, and we could remain for hours, drinking in the beauties of this splendid scene; but the chill winds warn us, that the earth is still sleeping her winter's sleep, and that the hour for reveling in nature's beauty, and losing the world in dreamy thoughts, has not yet arrived. Turning, before we go, to the left, we catch occasional glimpses, through the trees, of the old Indian village ground of Black Hawk and his men.—Here was a village of two or three hundred wigwams, of the largest and most convenient class. It was called Sauk Village. It was the rendezvous of Black Hawk and his warriors, in the summer months, and was entirely deserted in the winter season.

In the spring of 1829, Sauk Village was first encroached upon by the whites. A large field of four or five hundred acres, including nearly the whole of Sauk Village was enclosed by a common fence, built by several settlers from the mines and from the central portion of the State. There were John W. Spencer, Lander Case, Sen., Jonah H. Case, Charles H. Case, W. T. Brasher, William Carr, Gabriel Force, and a few others. Of these, Messrs. J. H. and C. H. Case, Spencer and Carr are still living in Rock Island and vicinity. At this time there were a few other families at different points on the river near this place. There were two families at Stephenson, now Rock Island. One Benjamin Clark and a man by the name of Davis. Col. Davenport lived upon the Island. Rinnah Wells, now deceased, lived near Sauk Town, and so also did Joshua Vanduff, from whom Vanduff's Island is named. Benjamin Goble, Nathan Smith, and Martin Smith lived still farther up the river. Benjamin F. Pike, afterwards captain of a volunteer company in the Black Hawk war, and first Sheriff of Rock Island County, also lived in the vicinity. Those that I have named and perhaps two or three other families, were the only settlers below the head of the Island, and above the mouth of Rock river.

At the time of the building of the fence I have spoken of, the Indians were absent on their hunting expeditions. They returned about the first of May. They found that the pale faces had not only enclosed a large portion of their cultivated fields, but they had torn down 30 or 40 of their lodges, and used the materials for fuel and fencing purposes. They were much dissatisfied, and complained to the United States officers and Agents at Ft. Armstrong. A council of whites and Indians was called upon the Island. The Indians were referred to the treaty of 1804, at St. Louis in which they had sold their lands to the whites. The Indians knew nothing of the matter. Black Hawk, who was himself an old man, had some faint recollection of some "talk" of the kind, but could remember nothing further. At length, after much search, an old man was found who was present at the treaty. His name was Quasquamie. The council was continued another day, and Quasquamie was brought in. He was very aged and infirm. He said an Indian chief was imprisoned at St. Louis, and he and others went down to get him liberated. Before they could obtain the release of their chief, they were obliged to sign a treaty and sell their lands. They did so, but the pale faces, after releasing the prisoner, killed him, and they were obliged to return mourning. So they considered themselves released from the contract.

This story was discredited by the U. S. agents, who insisted that the Indians should leave the country. However, it was agreed that both parties should cultivate the ground in peace that summer, each party insisting that the other should leave next year.

I wish here to correct a slight error in Ford's history, which seems so strongly against the Indians, as other works have been in their favor.

The author says, "The United States had caused some of these lands, situate at the mouth of Rock river, to be surveyed and sold. These lands included the great town of the nation, near the mouth of the river. The purchasers from the government moved on to their lands, built houses, made fences and fields, and took possession of the ancient metropolis of the Indian nation." Now the fact is, the settlers took possession of it in the spring of 1829, and the lands were not entered until the fall [illegible]. However, by treaty stipulations, the Indians were to have possession until the land was brought into market. This was not done until the fall of 1829.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

KATE AYLESFORD. A story of the Refugees. By Charles J. Peterson.

[illegible]

Philadelphia. T. B. Peterson.

The author of this book has acquired a high reputation for his tales of the times of the Revolution; and the present work will compare favorably with any of his former writings. It is a true tale of the times that tried men's souls, and is full of stirring incidents. The author's descriptive powers are of a high order. Then his description of sunset at sea, and the succeeding storm, are perfect masterpieces. Not the least merit of the book is the fact that it contains no unnatural incidents and no indelicate allusions. It will no doubt be highly popular.

Messrs. Munson & Bradley, No. 81 Lake street, have it for sale.

Mr. Michael Doheny devotes three columns of The Honest Truth to a letter to Mr. Wise, of Virginia. Its burden is that the Irish and German Catholics are in favor of nigger-catching and unlimited rum drinking, and vote on that side at every election. So long an argument hardly seems necessary to make out so [illegible] a proposition.

Town of Barrington.

We have the following returns from the election in the town of Barrington, this county:

Supervisor, Homer Wilmarth; Town Clerk, J. W. Kingsley; Assessor, H. M. Campbell; Collector and Constable, S. W. Kingsley; Com'rs of Highways, Geo. B. Stevens, Samuel Freeman, David Richardson; Overseer of Poor, H. Kingsley.

CONDITION OF AFFAIRS IN EUROPE.

Although not fewer than forty persons in the city of Vienna, must be fully aware of what has taken place at the meetings of the Conference, so well is the secret kept that almost nothing has been suffered to transpire to the agents of the public press. It is known, however, that the first of the four basis on which a peace is to be negotiated, has been accepted en bloc, by the Russian plenipotentiaries, Prince Gortschakoff and M. de Titoff, and runs thus:

"ART. 1. Abolition of the exclusive protectorate of Russia in Moldavia, and Wallachia; the privileges accorded to those provinces by the Sultan being placed under the guarantee of the five powers."

The London Morning Post warns its readers against putting faith in the accounts of what has happened in the conferences. It further says that a record of each day's proceedings is drawn up and signed by the plenipotentiaries and that this mode of signature may readily give rise to erroneous reports of an agreement having been come to on the points of guarantee.

Count Nesselrode, it is believed, will proceed to Vienna when the negotiation becomes critical.

Accounts from St. Petersburgh, probably reliable, of date March 5, state that the substance of the Czar Alexander's speeches to the representatives of the different bodies and administrations of the state, may be condensed into these words: "I will maintain firmly the plans traced out by my father." In his address to the Council of State, the officers of the Guard, and a deputation of nobles, who reported concerning the militia, the Czar expressed himself yet more strongly:

"I solemnly declare," said he, "that I will not give up the first inch of Russian territory to our enemies; I will take good care to prevent their augmenting any further the acts of aggression and outrage to our country—may my hand wither first—will I affix my signature to a treaty which shall bring the slightest dishonor on the national honor."

This speech was responded to with vehement applause.

According to conversational rumor the following arrangement, if its details could be adjusted, would meet the views of all parties. Russia would not object to [illegible] the entire freedom of the Black Sea, and the opening of the Danube, as also the permission to erect Turkish forts on the Asiatic side of the Euxine, and would consent to receive consuls inside Sebastopol.

If this be acceded to, the Bosphorus and the Dardanelles could not be closed against Russia, [illegible] would be free to visit the Mediterranean. This rumor, it must be observed is given as mere rumor.

If we may credit intelligence from Constantinople, of March 26th, fresh complication may arise from the attitude taken by the Turkish government. It is stated that Arif Effendi has received instructions to maintain the indefeasible sovereignty of the Porte over the Danubian [illegible]. He is also to protest against the Christians of the Empire being placed under any foreign protection. The Porte desires the participation of [illegible] in the Conference of Vienna.

The navigation of the Great Belt was open, Kiel was partially open, and the ice was breaking up everywhere.

A flying squadron—the first instalment of the English Baltic fleet—sailed from Spithead, March 20th, for Kiel. The squadron is under the command of Capt. the Watson, and comprises the ships Impérieuse, Euryalus, Arrogant, [illegible], and Cossack, in all 214 guns. Thousands of spectators witnessed their departure.

Describing the recent storming of a Russian redoubt by the French, the London Times says, editorially:

BLOOMINGTON, April 7, 1855.

EDITORS TRIBUNE:—The noble, fearless position of your paper on the great questions now before the people, is winning for it, in the central portion of the state, many friends among the better and more influential portion of the people.

The necessity for just such a paper as the TRIBUNE has long been felt by us, and especially in the present crisis. The election in June next is fraught with consequences which, we fear are not fully appreciated by all. The Liquor Law is the topic of discussion in all places in this vicinity, and at all times, and I may say that in Bloomington we are prepared to meet the question. We think, there is no city in the West where there is a better state of public sentiment than in Bloomington. There is no liquor sold here openly; and, of course, where there is no liquor to be had, industry, quietness and prosperity come as a natural consequence. Yet we are not oblivious to the fact, that in some portions of the state we shall have to encounter a desperate opposition to prohibition.

Our people are ready and willing, not only to labor at home, but also to give material aid to have the southern portion of the state thoroughly canvassed by able, efficient men, such as the Executive Committee of the State Alliance have, or are trying to secure. One individual here, who is a large land holder, said that every acre of land he possessed would be worth one dollar more if this law was approved by the people, and he gave the financial agent of the Alliance fifty dollars for the use of the Executive Committee. Others here gave liberally, and will give, to sustain a vigorous campaign. With the organized, determined opposition which we shall meet, it will be almost a miracle if we should succeed. The opposition with their money and liquor, with which to appeal to the lower and baser passions of a large class of our citizens, will, every man, be on hand; while the sober, industrious men, we fear, will stay at home.

Cannot something be done to show the farmers the necessity of devoting the day to this question. If this is done we are safe, if not we are beaten. One of the "picayune lecturers," of which the Chicago papers warned the people, was here last night. His re-hash of old stories did no hurt, I think, and but little good. The people will not tolerate a man who overrides a state organization, which they have created for the purpose of preventing imposition and having the work done systematically and efficiently.

We will try to extend the circulation of the TRIBUNE, and hope there can be found multitudes who will not only subscribe, but circulate after reading it, until the leaven of temperance and republicanism has leavened the whole state.

VERITAS.

Russians appear to have expected the attack, and had occupied the position with a small army rather than with a detachment in proportion to its extent. On the side of the French the force consisted of only half a brigade of Zouaves, 1,000 strong; two battalions of marines, 2,000 strong, and 400 volunteers. In all less than 4,000 men.

The Russians were 10,000 strong, and the unfortunate Zouaves fell into a regular ambuscade. Nevertheless, such was the dauntless vigor of these troops, that they stormed the redoubt and held one-half of it against fearful odds, when the Russians succeeded in outflanking the column; the marines were separated from the Zouaves and driven back in all directions, and the latter were completely surrounded by the enemy.

"A second time they succeeded, by sheer hand-to-hand fighting, in completing the capture of the redoubt, but no sooner had the Russian infantry fallen back than the batteries and ships opened a terrific fire upon the work, and rendered it completely untenable. It was not till then that Gen. Monet, who was twice severely wounded, ordered a retreat, and, though the night was disastrous from the loss of many hundred lives and the failure of the chief object, the gallantry displayed by the Zouaves was such that this repulse might well be ranked with their most brilliant achievements."

The Journal of St. Petersburgh gives a long account of the same affair. The report sums up by saying:

"Twice the enemy (French) attempted to renew the attack, but each time was driven back with loss to the trenches. Finally, after an hour's combat at the point of the bayonet, during which the Russian drummers never ceased to beat the charge, the enemy was compelled to retreat, leaving in our power more than a hundred killed, among whom were eight officers.

Moreover, our troops took 24 prisoners, 2 of whom were officers. In all, the loss of the enemy was not under 600 men, for during their retreat they were exposed to the heavy fire of the neighboring bastions, and of the steamers Vladimir, Chersonese and Gromonosets anchored in the roadstead. On our side we had 65 men killed, and 5 subaltern officers and 256 men wounded."

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

Monday, April 9, 1855.

Council met. Present—His Honor, Mayor Boone, and a full board of aldermen.

The minutes of the two last meetings were read and approved, and the usual number of petitions and communications were read, and referred to the appropriate standing committees.

Among them was one from Wm. B. Ogden, Esq., accepting the office of Sewerage Commissioner.

At half-past 8 o'clock, Mr. Ashton moved to suspend the rules, for the purpose of taking up the ordinance in regard to hackney coaches.

Mr. Hough objected.

So the rules were not suspended.

A ridiculous and silly petition, from George Anderson, was read, highly insulting in its tone to the city government, and praying, in a strain of mock piety, for the passage of an ordinance prohibiting dancing within the city.

Mr. Ward moved that the petitioner be allowed to withdraw the petition. Carried.

Reports of City Officers read.

City Treasurer reported balance in Treasury $19,758.61.

Collector of taxes reported collections amounting to $1,121.52.

Special Collector South Division reported ditto $455 23.

Special Collector West Division reported ditto $112 59.

Reports of Standing Committees.

Mr. Allen from the Committee on Schools, presented a report in regard to the various bids which had been sent in for the building of the edifice for the High School.

The report states that the lowest mason's bid for common brick was that of

Messrs. Mason & Hendrick	$16,530,00
Pressed brick, Thomas Milner	19,400,00
Ashlar of Athen's stone, Carter & Miller	20,120,00

CARPENTERS' BIDS:

Boggs & Son, without blinds	8,250,00
Blinds, lowest bid	220,00

No proposals have been received for stone; but the committee are unanimous in the opinion that the High School should be constructed of stone similar to that used in the erection of the new Congregational Church at the corner of Washington and Peoria streets, and recommend that proposals for such an edifice should be advertised for.

Report concurred in.

Mr. Ellithorpe from Committee on Licenses, made a report, recommending that the Mayor and Clerk be authorized to issue licenses to Opera Troupes or Minstrel companies at the rate of $10 a day.

The Committee on Public Grounds reported adversely to improvement of Union Park.

Subject referred to a special committee.

Alds. Granger, Ward and Smith, were appointed said committee.

Alderman Ellithorpe read a report from the Committee on Licenses, recommending that the Ethiopian minstrels be allowed to continue their exhibitions at Warner's Hall, at the rate of —— dollars per night, and that the Marshal be ordered to collect —— dollars from said company, for the time they have already exhibited here without paying for the same.

The Council refused to concur in the report.

The ayes and noes were taken upon the question of filling the first blank in the report at $25 per night. Ayes 5, noes 14. Ditto on filling blank with five dollars, ayes 9, noes 9, Mayor voted aye, and the motion was carried. The second blank was then filled with $50. The length of the license was then restricted to 100 days.

The Mayor urged upon the Council the importance of attending to the important business before it, and not frittering away its time in useless debate.

Ald. Hough, from committee on streets and alleys South Division, read a report favorable to the opening of certain new streets in said Division. Report concurred in. Also a report and order in favor of the construction of 41 culverts in certain portions of the South Division; on State, Bridge, Dearborn, Butterfield, Arnold, LaSalle, Blackwell, Purple, Grove, New, and Gano streets, appropriating $2,651, to be assessed and collected from the citizens on said streets, and that their assessors be elected by the Council to make such assessment and collection. Report and order concurred in, and Messrs. A. Huntington, F. Bragg, and J. L. James were elected said assessors.

Ald. Williams from same committee read report and order for a sidewalk in the extreme Southern part of the city. Concurred in.

Ald. Wayman, from Committee on Streets and Alleys, West Division, read the reports in relation to the width of certain sidewalks in that Division which was concurred in.

Ald. Holden, from same Committee, read report and order for opening Polk and Taylor streets from present limits to Western limits of the city. Concurred in.

Also a number of other reports in favor of sidewalks and streets in West Division, which were concurred in.

An order for paying Chicago Gas Light and Coke company, $3,564,17 for lighting the city and $309,75 for extra lamps was passed.

The bill for widening and cleaning the Chicago River was confirmed.

The Council then took up the ordinance in relation to hacks and cabs and our reporter left.

Strangers in the City.

Our hotels are all crowded to repletion with "strangers and travelers," and have been so for a week past. Many of them are Eastern men, looking out for an anchorage in the Garden City.

☞ The regular monthly meeting of the Sabbath School Union of the M. E. Churches of this city will be held in the basement of the Clark St. Church this evening, commencing at 7 1-2 o'clock.

Fire.

The fire at 12.30 last evening was caused by the burning of a small frame building on the corner of Wells and Washington streets, occupied as a shoe store. The building was not entirely destroyed, but badly injured. We did not learn the exact amount of loss.

Theatre.

First Night of Mr. Farren and Miss Louisa Howard.

This evening the engagement of the eminent artists, Mr. Henry Farren and Miss Louisa Howard commences. They appear in a new play, Plot and Passion, of which report speaks highly, and in the Love Chase. We have lately spoken at considerable length of Mr. Farren and Miss Howard, and we have no doubt but that their engagement will be a brilliant one. They have just finished an engagement at St. Louis which was highly successful.

Festivities of the Week.

The present week, answering to the Carnival week in Europe, seems to be devoted to festive enjoyments. Last night the ball of the Emmet's Guards came off at South Market Hall. To-night the Shields' Guards' ball takes place at the North Market Hall. On Thursday evening Miss Ryerson's cotillion party takes place. And on Friday evening Prof. Shaw gives another of his delightful "hops." On the Monday evening following the Chicago Scandinavian Union will give a benefit ball at North Market Hall, for the assistance of indigent Scandinavian emigrants.

Rattles in the Complaint Box.

April 9, 1855.

By Rev. W. H. Nichols. The sidewalk on the west side of Desplaines street, between Jackson and Van Buren, which was petitioned for two months ago and the petition granted, and also promised two weeks ago, to be made immediately, has not yet been commenced. Church-going people and pupils of the Edwards' Academy, are greatly incommoded by the delay. Mayor's order: Street Commissioner Salisbury will attend to the subject.

A MODEL DRY GOODS JOBBING HOUSE.

Country merchants are referred to the advertisement of Messrs. R. D. Jaune & Sons' Importing and Jobbing Dry Goods House, No. 46 Lake street. [illegible]

Messrs. R. D. Jaune & Sons have organized their Jobbing House into eight departments, and occupy the entire four stories of the large store, No. 46 Clark street, being 20 by 140 feet. Each department is kept entirely separate, and so arranged as to afford the buyers opportunity for inspection.

The lower floor is occupied by Prints and Ginghams, and the other by Gloves and Hosiery, and Yankee Notions, in which Messrs. J. & S. do a much larger trade than any other house in the West.

The second floor is devoted to Delaines, Lawns, Silks, Shawls and White Goods. The arrangement of the different classes is in the best style, and, with the bright light which is obtained from both fronts and rear of the building, presents a handsome display and gives the purchaser the best possible opportunity of inspection.

The third floor contains the Cloths and staple Cotton Goods, with equal advantages of light and room for examination.

The fourth floor is appropriated to Packages, just as they come from Europe or the American manufacturer, and arranged in classes. These packages are not broken, but sold to jobbers and heavy retail dealers, while in the rooms below the sales are by the piece.

For each of the eight departments, separate books are kept, and every sale noted, so that the amount of each particular article sold and the amount on hand, can be ascertained in a few moments at any time during or after the close of the season. This renders the usual yearly invoices which merchants have to go through with, entirely unnecessary.

The sales of this house for the past year were about half a million of dollars, and will doubtless considerably exceed that amount during the present year. One of the firm remains in New York the whole season, for the purpose of attending to the importations which the house makes, and of supplying domestic merchandise.

We have been thus specific in details, because it gives us great satisfaction to contemplate the important advantages that such a house gives to our city abroad in attracting merchants and trade from all parts of the great Northwest. Eight years ago, we believe there was not a single exclusively dry goods jobbing house in Chicago, and now they are numerous, and increasing rapidly,—the trade of Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Northern Indiana and Michigan, having turned to this city, as a more advantageous place for supply than any other point. The success of Messrs. Jaune & Sons is shared, we have reason to believe, by all other jobbing houses in the city, and there is ample room for many more. Last year it was impossible for them to accommodate all the trade that offered, and though stocks have been largely increased, it is probable the same condition of things will exist this year.

Keep Out the Fish.

Unless a finer strainer is put upon the reception pipe of the Water Works, there won't be any fish left in the Lake shortly, judging from the rate at which they are being hauled in at present. We see the little [illegible] alive and kicking in different parts of the city, after they have passed far, miles through the pipes and into the houses. Although this may look like a fish story, it is strictly true. Be careful in drinking not to get fishes bones in your throat.

The election of officers of this association took place last evening, and resulted as follows:

An Elegant Hat Establishment.

As Charley Oakford, of Philadelphia has the most splendid building for a Hat Establishment in the East, so J. Entries in the Complaint Book.

April 9, 1855.

By Rev. N. H. Nichols. The sidewalk on the west side of Desplaines street, between Jackson and Van Buren, which was petitioned for two months ago and the petition granted, and also promised two weeks ago, to be made immediately, has not yet been commenced. Church-going people and pupils of the Edwards' Academy, are greatly incommoded by the delay. Mayor's order: Street Commissioner Salisbury will attend to the subject.

By Augustus H. Burley. The condition of Clark street, between Harrison and Polk, a great portion, including all the planked part on one side, is occupied by persons building, and to an extent unwarrantable. A mud hole being between the planking, and all the travel forced to one side. Delays are constant, and great profanity, and ill feeling are consequent. An officer to regulate the passing of teams would, in part, regulate the evil.

Street Commissioner Bay will cause parties having building materials on the plank, to remove them, or plank round them so that teams can pass.

By Samuel S. Greeley. Erie street near Sedgwick, at the crossing of the slew, is extremely dangerous, and several feet deep, and nothing to warn passengers of its condition. I narrowly escaped losing my horse there, and had great difficulty in getting him out.

Street Commissioner [illegible] will attend to this.

By F. A. [illegible]. That G. D. Spalds' canal boat "Arctic" is sunk in the South Branch. Harbor Master Naples will cause it to be removed, and commence prosecution against the owner of the boat.

By Allan Pinkerton. That the sidewalk on the North side of Adams, west of Wells street, is all torn up, and has been for six months.

Street Commissioner Bay will examine this, and see if it can be repaired, or whether a new one is necessary.

Kemps & Engel and others. That the alley running through the block bounded north by West Randolph, Easterly Canal Street, South by Washington and West by Clinton street, is impassable for man or beast; and that the tenants of No. 40 and 42, West Randolph, throw slop and filth in the rear of 58 West Randolph street.

By William Wayman et al. That the sidewalk on the East side of West Water street, near Lake street Bridge, is blocked up with shingles.

Policeman Williams will notify the owner to remove these shingles immediately, and prosecute them if they neglect to do so.

By a Lodger (Gov. Mattison.) The German Lutherans and young frows, who congregate at Weinman's Hall, Lake street, to dance and drink lager bier on Sunday nights, make such an infernal noise that nobody can sleep within two blocks of the neighborhood.

By F. W. Doran. That saloon corner of Carroll and Jefferson streets, West side, make such disturbance on Sunday evenings, and complainant thinks the Ordinance is violated. A week ago Sunday night, a free fight took place, in which decanters and glasses were freely used.

The Briggs House.

This new hotel will be opened on or about the 1st of May. It has been leased for a term of years by Messrs. Farrow & Fairy of Boston, who take it with the intention of making it in every respect, a first class Hotel. The house will be furnished throughout in the best manner, and all its appliances are of the latest and most approved fashion. We are glad to learn that our old friend Blackwell, so long the universally known and admired steward of the Sherman House, and lately connected with the Lake House, will go into the Briggs House in that capacity. There could be no one step taken which would give the House more certain popularity than this. Mr. Blackwell's name is, in itself, a tower of strength, and we will be sure to win his already acquired laurels in his new position.

A MODEL DRY GOODS JOBBING HOUSE.

Country merchants are referred to the advertisement of Messrs. R. D. Jones & Sons, Importing and Jobbing Merchants, No. 86 Lake street. The position which the house already enjoys, is sufficient of itself with those who have been engaged in trade for two or more years in the Northwest, but the large immigration from every part of the world to Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas and Nebraska, and the consequent multiplication of merchants who look to this city for their markets, is a sufficient excuse for us to notice it at some length.

Messrs. R. D. Jones & Sons have organized their Jobbing House into eight departments, and occupy the entire four stories of the large store, No. 86 Clark street, being 26 by 140 feet. Each department is kept entirely separate, and so arranged as to afford the amplest opportunity for inspection.

The lower floor is occupied by Prints and Ginghams, and the dairy by Gloves and Hosiery, and Yankee Notions, in which Messrs. J. & S. do a much larger trade than any other house in the West.

The second floor is devoted to Edgings, Laces, Silks, Shawls and white Goods. The arrangement of the different classes is in the best style, and, with the bright light which is obtained from both fronts and rear of the building, presents a handsome display and gives the purchaser the best possible opportunity of inspection.

The third floor contains the Cloths and staple Cotton Goods, with equal advantages of light and room for examination.

The fourth floor is appropriated to Packages, just as they come from Europe or the American manufacturer, and arranged in classes. These packages are not broken, but sold to Jobbers and heavy retail dealers; while in the rooms below the sales are by the piece.

For each of the eight departments, separate books are kept, and every sale noted, so that the amount of each particular article sold and the amount on hand, can be ascertained in a few moments at any time during or after the close of the season. This renders the usual yearly invoices which merchants have to go through with, entirely unnecessary.

The sales of this house for the past year were about half a million of dollars, and will doubtless considerably exceed that amount during the present year. One of the firm remains in New York the whole season, for the purpose of attending to the importations which the house makes, and of supplying domestic merchandise.

We have been thus specific in detail, because it gives us great satisfaction to contemplate the important advantages that such a house gives to our city abroad in attracting merchants and trade from all parts of the great Northwest. Eight years ago, we believe there was not a single exclusively dry good jobbing house in Chicago, and now they are numerous, and increasing rapidly,—the trade of Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Northern Indiana and Michigan having turned to this city, as a more advantageous place for supply than any other point. The success of Messrs. Jones & Sons is shared, we have reason to believe, by all other jobbing houses in the city, and there is ample room for many more. Last year it was impossible for them to accommodate all the trade that offered, and though stocks have been largely increased, it is probable the same condition of things will exist this year.

Keep Out the Fish.

Unless a fine strainer be put upon the reception pipe of the Water Works, there won't be any fish left in the Lake shortly, judging from the rate at which they are being sucked in at present. We see the little juvenile white fish alive and kicking in different parts of the city, after they have passed for miles through the pipes and into the houses. Although this may look like a fish story, it is strictly true. Be careful in drinking not to get fishes bones in your throat.

Chicago Building Association.

The election of officers of this association took place last evening, and resulted as follows:

President—W. W. Danenhower.

Vice President—W. [illegible] Story.

Treasurer—H. B. Hurd.

Secretary—F. N. Barker.

Assistant Secretary—S. S. Bliss.

Trustees—Rev. H. Curtis, A. G. Downs and E. R. Bowen.

Inspectors—J. A. Hoisington, E. Smith, and M. B. Clancy.

An Elegant Hat Establishment.

As Charley Oakford, of Philadelphia has the most splendid building for a Hat Establishment in the East, so J. Barstow, formerly Calvert & Barstow, of 134 Lake Street, Chicago, has the most elegant building in the West devoted to that purpose; and knowing this he has determined to make his stock of fashionable Hats, Caps, Furs, &c., always correspond to the excellence of his rooms. He has just returned from New York, and has a supply of Leary's, Genin's and Beebe's latest and latest Spring styles, in addition to his stock of a still better character, manufactured in his marble building at 134 Lake street. Barstow has workmen engaged from the first to the fifth story of his building in the manufacture of spring Hats, and it is such manufacturing establishments that add to the substantial business character of our city.

We need say no more except to repeat

The number 134,

ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTY-FOUR,

Placed over the door

Of the splendid Hat Store in Lake St.

Ho! For the Circus.

Every boy and girl, and three-fourths of the men and women also, will be up in arms on to-morrow to see the two great circuses, which entering town that day, will perform every afternoon and evening this week. We have almost caught the fever ourself, and long to hear the well known salutation of the clown to the audience—"Well, here we are, again, Mr. Merryman!" By consulting the advertisement of this affair, in another column, it will be seen that these combined circuses promise some rather extraordinary attractions.

Sale of Real Estate by Thomas Allen, No. 3, Smith's Bank. South half, lot 12 in block 114, school section addition to Chicago, 25x112, for $3,900. One-third cash, balance one and two years.

Also, lot on River street, 24x100, in Fort Dearborn, addition to Chicago, for $4,800—$3,800 cash, balance eight and sixteen months.

Laying of a Corner Stone.

On Thursday, the 12th inst. Rt. Rev. Dr. Kemper, the Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Wisconsin will lay the corner stone of "Bishop White Hall," at Nashotah University near Milwaukee. Rev. Dr. Muhlenberg of New York, and Rev. Robert H. Clarkson of Chicago are expected to deliver addresses on the occasion.

Blackwood's Magazine for March

Is on our table. The contents are—The Beggar's Legacy; Zaidee, a romance; Vagabond Life in Mexico; Civilization, the Census; A Peep at Paris; The Story of the Campaign, written in a tent in the Crimea, part 4; The Ministerial Changes.

Published by Leonard Scott & Co. New York. $3,00 a year.

Enlarging.

Among the many new buildings about to be erected here, we would mention that of the Messrs. Adams of the Garden City Mills. On the 15th inst. the Messrs. Adams will commence enlarging their mill building by the erection of a four story brick on the west side of it, 100 feet deep, with 80 feet width on the river, and 70 feet on North water, running from railroad to river. There will be in it two stories, one of them 100 feet deep, the other 80 feet, and there will be offices for produce men in the upper stories. Moss & Co. do the brick work, and the carpenter work is to be by Baker & McKeeing, the same gentlemen who erected that of Gibb's & Griffin warehouse. The architects are Messrs. Carter & Bauer.

Oxford, N. Y. April 9.

A most disgraceful riot occurred here yesterday morning. It appears that a Roman Catholic who had been married by a Protestant clergyman, and in consequence excommunicated—entered the Catholic Church in company with a Protestant friend, when the congregation were assembled for public worship. The Priest, Father Colton, immediately ordered the man to be put out, which order was faithfully executed by both male and female attendants at the door. A fight, in which the Priest is said to have been implicated, commenced. The exercises in the church were suspended and the crowd adjourned to the nearest hotel, where a more general fight ensued between Catholics and Protestants, in which the former came off second best. The Priest was arrested and is now in custody, as are also several more of the rioters. No fire arms were used and no lives lost, but many persons were badly injured. All is quiet this morning and the examination of those arrested is proceeding.

7 P. M.

This afternoon, Father Colton, the Irish priest, was held to bail, with several others, in the sum of $10,000 to keep the peace. He has also been served with a writ from the supreme court, at the instance of one of his countrymen who claims private damages. Much excitement exists. Several more arrests are to be made and more fighting is expected.

Hartford, April 9.

The Democratic party has nominated a union ticket against the Know Nothings, which was supported by the anti K. N. Whigs. In our city election to-day this ticket was elected, having carried five of the six aldermen and thirteen of the twenty-four councilmen, making 17 anti K. N.'s to 11 K. N.'s in the joint council.
